

Facial Recognition (Face Detection) Report

This report demonstrates basic facial recognition using OpenCV. The process involves image acquisition, preprocessing (grayscale conversion), face detection using Haar Cascade classifier, and displaying the detected faces.

Input Image:

Output Image (Face Detection):

The system detects faces and marks them with rectangles. This demonstrates low-level (image capture), mid-level (feature detection), and high-level (decision making) computer vision tasks.